

Rosmin Esmail

Rosmin Esmail holds a Master of Science Degree in Community Health and Epidemiology from Queen's University, a Bachelor of Science Degree from McMaster University and has completed a Professional Management Certificate Program through the University of Calgary. She has also received certification in the Certified Health Executive program through the Canadian College of Health Leaders and has completed the Alberta Health Services' Executive Education Program focused on leadership development. She is also completing her PhD in Health Services Research in the Department of Community Health Sciences at the University of Calgary. Her PhD thesis is focused on understanding the relationship between knowledge translation (KT) and health technology reassessment (HTR). She has been member of the DEA-IG Executive team for the past two years and has worked in the area of health technology assessment since 2001.